CLYDE BUILT IN CENTRE OF RICH FARMING DISTRICT 47 YEARS AGO

Total area of the Clyde farming district comprises approximately 84,000 acres according to a government economic survey made recently. Of this area 37,975 acres are under cultivation and the remainder is pasture land and wooded areas.

Based on information obtained from long time farmers of the district the average crop yield per acre over the past 20 years is as follows: wheat, 20 to 24 bushels; barley, 25 to 30 bushels; oats, 30 to 40 bushels.

Four grain elevators in Clyde, provide storage facilities, for 250,000 bushels of grain. Records for 1950 show 50,000 bushels of wheat and 120,000 bushels of coarse grains having been shipped from Clyde by rail. There were 46,000 dozens of eggs shipped out.

Altitude is 2,142 ft. Temperatures averages are: mean summer temperature, 52 degrees F; mean winter temperature, 20 degrees F. Average yearly temperature, 34 degrees F.

Average yearly rainfall, 12.34 inches; average yearly snowfall, 53.4 inches; total yearly precipitation, 17.62 inches.

Clyde Consolidated School is in the Westlock School District. This district was formed in 1917 from a combination of the old Dugannon school district, Violet Hill School District and Clyde Village School District. It was the first consolidated school district in Northern Alberta.

There are two school buildings in Clyde having a total of six classrooms that are at present accommodating 190 pupils. Grades 1-12 are taught by a staff of six teachers.

Total area of village is 104.6 acres. Village population according to 1946 Dominion census was 150; 1950 local census, 233.

When the Canadian Northern Railway, now Canadian National, began building a line from Edmonton to the Athabasca Landing, Clyde became the nucleus around which a community of considerable importance began to grow.

Forty-seven years ago, the new community decided just what spot upon the prairie it would occupy. The Canadian Northern Railway purchased a quarter section of land which had belonged to the Canadian Pacific Railway and decreed that Clyde should be the commercial centre of the area known as the Pembina District.

Among the early pioneers are the names: Mr. John Zaskowski, J. M. Leindecker, Knud Olson, A. E. McEwan, Walter Weidreck, George Clyde, George Beaton, E. Erickson, Neil Forbes and John McLaughlin.

John Zaskowski settled in the district in 1903 and immediately began breaking land to develop his farm. As a sideline, he began a lumbering business and in 1906, brought in a saw mill and cut lumber for the new homes of incoming settlers. This was the first sawmill in the north country and was located near Reed Lake.

Mr. Leindecker, with his father and brother Antoine, came to Clyde in 1904. They homesteaded and also bought a parcel of CPR land.

FIRST POST OFFICE

George Clyde, homesteaded a quarter section in 1905 and in 1906 a post office was granted for the district. It was located at Mr. Clyde's house and George Clyde became the first district postmaster. The same year however, he turned the postmaster's office over to Walter Weidreck. Weidreck then started a store which he sold to H. W. Nickerson in 1921.

There was an attempt to start a town on the Clyde place but when the Canadian Northern Railway came with survey men and construction crews, they built a railway station and surveyed a townsite at the same time. Mr. Nickerson was quick to realize that his store on the Clyde place would soon be of little value, and built a large store on the main street of the newly surveyed townsite.

BUILDING UP

Immediately following, a lively barn was built and J. H. Cole erected a three-story hotel. Buildings began to rise on both sides of main street as stores, restaurants, a pool hall, blacksmith shop, and implement stores were built.

The first administrator was H. W. Nickerson who served as reeve in 1914. When Clyde was incorporated a village in the latter part of the same year, Mr. Nickerson served as mayor of Clyde with K. Olson and E. McEwan as councillors. The first school meeting was held in 1907, at which time E. Donald, G. Walks and E. Erickson were elected as school trustees. The following year, a school was built and Bert Pathuddo became the district's first school teacher.

EARLY SALARIES

Early records show interesting and amusing figures regarding salaries paid for various positions at that time. Mr. P. I. Dall, the district health officer in 1914 received a salary of $45 per year. Samuel Swatfigure, constable, was paid $1 per month. Bert Pathuddo the first school teacher, received $100 per year.

Clyde has become more modernized, but has grown little in the past 20 years. The village was named "Clyde" after George D. Clyde, an early settler and the first postmaster of the district.

Service Station Is Renovated

ST. ALBERT.—Sunset Service Station has been re-organized and is now under the management of a new owner, Jim Brace, formerly of Edmonton Motors and latterly Bob Lavoie of Capitol Hill Motors.

Mr. Brace has done extensive renovation in the garage and service station and has engaged an experienced mechanic, Harry Monchaskowski. Harry specializes in repairs to cars and trucks and the service station features B-A gas and oil products.

Sunset Service Station is located at 11809 St. Albert Road.

CYO NEWS BRIEFS

All the members gave their unanimous support in carrying out the Communion Breakfast. Our guest speaker was Father Peccade of Edmonton. Father LaBonte also spoke to the gathering. A special thank you is extended to the group who worked in the kitchen.

Attention—"Stardust Serenade" has been postponed till June 4. Bear this date in mind and turn out in your best bib-and-tucker to support and enjoy this semi-formal dance. This is the first graduation dance held in St. Albert. Tickets may be purchased from Lucille Morin.

The citizens of St. Albert had to deal with a very ramunctious group Sunday evening. From 9 to 10, doors flew open, windows were broken, garbage cans ransacked, ponds dragged for frogs and even our mayor was taken out of bed so that his signature could be obtained. Yes, it was the CYO on their scavenger hunt, collecting everything from dill pickles, an armful of hay to dog biscuits! A very tired group returned to complete the evening's fun by dancing. Congratulations to the team who managed to collect everything.

Don't forget to turn your dial to CHAF on May 29 to hear our last program of the air for the year. Gisele has another good program lined up for your entertainment.

Thought for the day: The mill will never grind with the water that is past.

Chamberland, Margaret Barry, Pauline Seguin, Marie Claire and Marie Rose Hurlbut, Claire St. Louis, Bruno Prefontaine and Mike Dolianko.

Aggression Repulsed

The present policy of the United Nations is not to settle political issues by force but to prevent the aggressor from imposing a settlement by force.

The invasion of South Korea on June 25, 1950, represented an attempt by Communists to profit by aggression. The resistance to that aggression, if it succeeds in thwarting the purpose of the invaders, will successfully carry out the policy of the United Nations and make it unprofitable.

There is, of course, a political objective in connection with all of Korea. This is a unified, independent and democratic government. The aim had been accomplished in South Korea, but North Korea, under Russian control, was no part of the scheme. No body proposed an invasion of North Korea in order to establish a democratic regime in that part of the country. Consequently, our military operations have not been undertaken with a view to "imposing" a democracy by force.

Progress on the Farm

One of the greatest social and economic advances made in the prairies during the past 15 years has been the rapid electrification of rural areas.

While a strong controversy has raged over whether the government or private enterprise is best equipped to supply farms with power, there have been great strides made by both in serving rural districts.

Extension of electric service to rural areas has had important effect upon farm life and activity. Not only do rural families enjoy the advantages and conveniences of electric appliances but farm work has been facilitated by the use of power which conserves manpower and makes possible greater and more economic productivity.

And it should be apparent that introduction of electricity to thousands of farm homes, not counting the other activities served in the rural areas, means a tremendous market for the manufacturers of electrical devices and appliances.

This, in turn, means business for wholesalers and retailers as well as those who sell the electrical needs of farm customers.

This is one instance of a trend wherein better living standards to one portion of the population has contributed to the welfare of the entire population.

Death Is So Final

A splintering of wood, a dull thud and tragedy descended upon a little group of children who, but a moment before, had made the playground re-echo with their happy shouts.

The heavy beam which had formed part of a playground swing was lifted from the broken body of a little child. Death drew a curtain across a life scarcely begun.

The shock and grief which darkened the child's home may be imagined; the loss to the community was inestimable.

Such an accident could happen here. Playground equipment, even in perfect condition, is something of a hazard. In poor condition it invites disaster.

What have you done to protect your child from such a fate? Have you ever looked at the equipment on which your child plays, either in your yard or in the community playground? Do you know how often school playground equipment is checked or if it ever is?

If accidents are to be prevented the best in equipment must be provided and we must insist on its periodic inspection. Also there should be competent playground supervision.

This spring is a good time to see to it that our children at play are as safe as is humanly possible.

Case of The 50c Want Ad

By T. W. PUE

I am indebted to R. A. Denison, and his article in the current issue of the Canadian Weekly Editor for a very illuminating series of letters concerning a 50c classified advertisement and a $2.00 subscription.

T. W. PUE

Before you read this—would you check up and see if, perhaps, your subscription is in arrears. But—tosh and bother—why bring that up? This makes a good story:

Once upon a time there was a reporter who worked for a big city daily. He was a very good reporter. So he didn't think he should spend his time tracking down news leads 'till 2 or 3 a.m.

"No, sir," said he, "this is not for me!"

So he asked his boss if he could take a crack at being news editor and his boss said, "Sure!"

So our hero took over his new job and worked very hard with his blue pencil 'till 2 or 3 a.m. By and by there came a time when less and less people were jumping off the big bridge; less and less guests of Spike's Bar around the corner were getting stabbed in the back with ice picks and the mayor's wife had returned to her husband after running away with the part-time dog catcher.

In short, news was just so so.

"So," says our news editor, "now is the time for me to take a holiday while I have the chance. I will take my wife and kids away from this mess for a while and head into the country."

Anyway, he liked the country so much he bought a little weekly paper.

And one of the trials and tribulations of his new life included the following correspondence:

Morningside, Sask.
April 4, 1951.

Mr. Borge Powosi,
RR1 Morningside.

In checking over our outstanding accounts I ran across a bill against you for 50c, this item being a "want ad" that you ordered two months ago. I believe we dated at the time that you would drop in and pay this and no doubt you have forgotten about it.

Would you send along the "fourbits" some time soon so we can wipe this off our books? Thanks.

Your home town editor,
The Weekly Mail,
A. Witherspoon.

RR1,
Morningside.

But these drugstore cowboys these days think they're well dressed in their silly zoot-suits. They should have seen how handsome my first husband was.

THE FARMER'S BURDEN

Dear Sir—One farmer puts his coarse grain into his dairy cows, steers, hogs, etc., and then sells them when and how he wishes—for cash. But his neighbor, who has no stock, is compelled by a dictatorial Alberta act (penalty for evasion $500 fine or six months in jail) to deliver all such grains to the government to dispose of as "they please", and pay the farmer—some day—"some money"—for them.

Alberta Wheat Crop This Year Dependent On Warm Weather of Next Few Weeks

The size of Alberta's wheat crop this year depends on how much moderately warm weather the province gets during the next couple of weeks.

Any more extremely wet weather would create a tendency among farmers to switch acreage from wheat to other coarse grains, according to the agriculture department.

Seeding has commenced in some areas that had little winter snow and where moisture conditions were described as "excellent." A department official termed it too early to predict harvest prospects.

Normally, seeding was under way the first of May and it was hoped to be general the first week of the month. But last year, seeding was not general until May 29.

Officials hope for a slight increase in wheat acreage this year if favorable conditions prevail, but said acreage would not reach the 1949 figure.

First seeding in the Edmonton area was carried out last week when 100 acres of wheat were seeded on the farm of Donald Dick, who farms in the St. Albert district.

He was able to do early seeding of his Thatcher seed because the land was quite high and run-off and drying was quite rapid.

Barring drought, hail or extreme wetness, a "fairly good" wheat crop is predicted for Alberta this year.

If and when Cary Grant plays in the movie being written for him by Andrew Solt, he will play four parts. He plays a game of cards with his three brothers, all, of course, played by one star.

When in the city shop around the corner and save.

ALTA. HUNTING PHEASANT EGGS

Alberta game branch officials are hunting pheasant eggs.

The pheasant, one of the hunter's favorite birds, may be in rather short supply this year. Severe storms last winter killed an estimated 50 to 75 per cent of Alberta's pheasants.

Alberta usually supplies Saskatchewan with some eggs, but now Saskatchewan is on the hunt for pheasant eggs too.

Posture Habits Of Students Scored

CALGARY — (BUP) — Dr. L. C. Allan, assistant city medical health officer, believes 75 per cent of Calgary school children do not know how to walk correctly.

"Too many children allow their shoulder blades to stick out like angel's wings," he said. "At school examinations, half the children did not know whether they were standing up straight."

The biggest fault seems to be that of holding the head down instead of back and resting on top of the spine, he said.

"If children are allowed to assume an incorrect posture at an early age," he warns, "they will be round-shouldered when they reach the age of 20 or 30."

Farmers Net Most Money From Wheat

The percentages of farm cash income contributed by the sale of various farm products are indicated by figures compiled by R. E. English, statistician for the department of agriculture.

In 1938, Alberta farmers received more than 60 per cent of their cash income from the sale of wheat but in 1943 only 21 per cent of their income came from wheat sales. In 1948 wheat sales provided 45 per cent of cash income and in 1950 approximately 40 per cent.

Small-Town Art on Tour In Alberta Art Display

Paintings by artists from small Alberta towns are featured in the fifth traveling arts display of the Visual Arts Board of the Cultural Activities Branch which started its province-wide tour at Camrose recently.

This display, containing paintings of 33 Alberta artists, 14 of whom come from the smaller towns. Twice as many artists from smaller towns are represented than during any previous display. Many of the artists in the group whose work is being shown were trained in community art classes arranged by the Department of Extension of the University of Alberta.

The paintings offer a variety of technique and subject. There are several portraits, two studies of Alberta Indians and a wide representation of agricultural, mountain and rural scenes. Of interest are three different interpretations of burnt timberland.

The display will travel between Calgary and Westlock. To date reservations have been made for the display to be exhibited in 14 points. Reservations can be made up to the month of December.

Future showings of the display are May 22-26, Rocky Mountain

LETTER TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa—I am to be married soon and I have been reading over the marriage ceremony.

We have decided to leave out the word "obey" because people who love each other have no cause to ask obedience of each other. Please tell me what you understand "to cherish" means.

BRIDE-TO-BE

Answer:

The dictionary gives as some of the meanings of cherish, "to treat with tenderness," "hold dear" and "hold in the heart." When your husband promises at the altar to cherish you, it means that besides giving you shelter, clothing and food he will also bestow upon you affection, sympathy and loyalty. You two will stand together always and, in time of trouble, he will be the one person you can rely upon. He will be there to lean upon and to comfort you and you will gain new strength from his sympathetic understanding and love. What might appear as tribulations if you met them alone should become trivialities if you have him by you and he continues to "cherish" you.

LOUISA,

A pitiful letter from a "Broken-Hearted Wife" also comes this week. She has two small children and up until the last few weeks her home has been happy. Her husband, however has started staying out at nights and then comes home and brags about where he has been and what he has done. She wants to know how to win his love back again.

Well, personally, I don't think he is worth having and I think the best thing you can do, if you have a reliable relative or woman to take care of your children, is to find a good job and leave your husband in the gutter where he evidently enjoys wallowing.

It is understandable that a man might stray from the straight and narrow path, but for him to do such a thing and then come home and brag about it, tags him as a low order of the human race indeed. The sooner you get rid of that kind of cattle, the better off you will be.

LOUISA

To a broken-hearted Mother—I can see by your letter that you

Treat Tourists Fairly, Gov't Minister Urges

Don't try to "stick" the tourist, be truthful and don't exaggerate Alberta's attractions, always show tourists kindness, courtesy and service.

That was the main message delivered by Hon. A. J. Hooke, minister of economic affairs for Alberta.

Mr. Hooke said that tourists don't come to Alberta primarily to spend money. They come for recreation, for reasons of health, for fishing and hunting, and often to look over business prospects.

"Sticking" the tourist, overcharging for food, accommodation or services would be killing the goose that lays the golden egg, he declared. "We don't want people to think that Alberta is only for tourists with plenty of money to spend."

Exaggeration of the attractions of Alberta, the minister said, was not only unnecessary but would probably lead to bad results. With Alberta's wonderful scenery, good fishing and hunting, there is no need to build it up bigger than it is.

Kindness, courtesy and service, he said, would result in the best kind of advertising the province could get—tourists going home and telling their friends what a wonderful place Alberta was for a vacation. There were more than a million visitors to Alberta last year, he pointed out, and if each one was satisfied with what he found it would be the same as hiring a million salesmen to sell the attractions of the province.

Army's Growth Poses Welfare Problems

MONTREAL — (BUP) — The growth of the Canadian armed services has been cited as a factor contributing to new and increasing problems for welfare services across the country.

H. P. Thornhill, chairman of the board of directors of the Welfare Federation of Montreal said that many of the Red Feather agencies in Montreal already had been faced with social problems, the most common being the necessity of helping wives awaiting army allowances.

He said the social and psychiatric situations resulting from a father's absence were even more important, and that many cases required services of professionally-trained social workers.

Rent Control Board To Start Hearings In June

The Alberta Rental Control Board should be ready to start hearing individual rental appeals by about June 1, chairman Sam B. Ferris of Edmonton said this week.

Regulations and forms drawn up by the board have been submitted to the Alberta Cabinet for approval. The rest of the rent control machinery is nearing completion.

Mr. Ferris said the board has received only eight or ten rental appeals since it took over provincial controls after Federal regulations lapsed April 30.

But an "enormous" volume of inquiries about Alberta's rental control system have been received. Mr. Ferris said a great many landlords and tenants now are negotiating new rents. Many of these negotiations appeared to be successful. Any new agreements must be filed with the board.

The board's offices are in Edmonton and Calgary but it will hold hearings anywhere in the province providing there are enough cases to be heard at one time.

NEWS NOTES

Morinville Farmers Start Spring Work

MORINVILLE.—Familiar tunes of the tractors and the machinery are humming again as the nice weather sets in. Many farmers are working hard since the beginning of the week. Combines are seen in many a field doing the work that was left behind last fall.

Mrs. R. Canache is back from the hospital after a short illness. Morinville was well represented at the annual French Festival this year when many students from Thibault and Frontenac schools rendered their numbers in St. Albert last Sunday.

The Frontenac school presented two recitations and three solos; from the Thibault school, there were two recitations, two choruses, one "recitation-chorus," one solo, one duet, and one folkdance. The students really merit our greatest appreciation.
